

Leslie
Feinberg

Photo: Bill Heskwe II

Author of Stone Butch Blues, recently nominated for two Lambda Literary Awards, Leslie Feinberg both challenges and creates Community and reaches people as few authors do. If you missed Leslie & Minnie Bruce at the Out Write conference this fall, you don't want to miss this event.

Minnie
Bruce
Pratt

Photo: Sharon Farmer

Poet and essayist, author of the award-winning Crime Against Nature, the words and images of Minnie Bruce Pratt have been helping to shape Lesbian culture and conscience for the last decade. The New York Times says: "Each (poem) is a verbal emergency, original and startling." Expect the temperature (and your spirits) to rise.

an evening of
Poetry, Passion & Pride

Leslea
Newman

Heather's (in)famous mommy has deflected many right wing attacks to bring us Secrets, Sweet Dark Places, and Gloria Goes to Gay Pride, among other titles in a variety of genres. Look for her next anthology, the Femme Mystique in 1995.

Susan
Stinson

Local poet Susan Stinson is the author of Belly Songs, in celebration of fat women. She has two novels in the works, Fat Girl Dances With Rocks (fall '94) and Martha Moody (fall '95) both from Spinsters Ink.

Tickets $5.00 to $10.00 sliding scale, to defray the travel costs of Leslie Feinberg and Minnie Bruce Pratt. Advance tickets available at Pride & Joy in Northampton and Food For Thought in Amherst. This is a Pride & Joy Production.

Friday, 6 May, 1994

8:00 p.m.

Unitarian Society of Northampton

Refreshments will be served. Books by all four will be available for sale and signing.

