PERSONAL COMMENTS: I, like other crossdressers, have gone through different phases of my hobby. I think I am in my most enjoyable phase. I used to be obsessed with being passable, but now put less pressure on myself and am enjoying being female for what it is. My wife enjoys the different perspective I am able to give to situations. She enjoys how I am able to relate to her as a woman. Consequently, she is my girlfriend who lets me wear her clothes (as long as I don't stretch them) and wear her makeup. I am also very much the traditional male spouse providing her the strength she needs at those certain times.

BRENDA

“a ndrogyny?” When asked chanteuse K.D. Lang respond, “It means making your sexuality available, through your art to everyone.” I have to make mention that we see this every night in Tinsletown and I understand that to the folks in the movie industry and definition of androgyny is a “drag show”.

One of the definitions of the word is “being both male and female in one.” Interesting and not surprising that so many people have their own personal definition.

Many people seem to feel that the new wave in gender bending is all so very trendy and somewhat timely. Benders have always been with us except for the period we call the Eisenhower era and God knows that one did not wear a dress during the days of the Spanish Inquisition should you be a man.

In the early seventies we had a group of rock stars that had no problem expressing and cashing in their new and shocking androgynous look. David Bowie first started out doing coffee houses and small venues in San Francisco before his Ziggy Stardust days. He performed as a folk singer playing solo in full drag doing with long blonde hair and full length designer gowns and dresses and this was in the late sixties. This image did not sell so he went back to Europe and put together a rock and roll band.

David Bowie and the Spiders from Mars featured Ms. Bowie and a sci-fi haute couture heroine who put out a message that it was ok to be dressed whether you were a boy or girl in your finest. This was sent to you through incredible high energy rock and roll with a visual spectacle to keep you tuned in way before MTV.

In the movie, The Man Who Fell To Earth (1972) David shows us a he-she character that uses high fashion as the medium. Let us not forget that David Bowie has lived a life of Androgyny mixed with mad drag and music and Mr. B. was doing it when Prince was in his diapers!

with Marlayna Lacie

Mick Jagger showed us another side of his personality in the cult movie Performance (1970). He plays a has-been rock star who lives in a secluded lifestyle with two sexy and uncontrollable women. This hapless home of sexual and moral decadence and decay is invaded by a con man hiding from the mob. Ms. Jagger who flits around in silky robes and feminine attire seems confused as he finds he his having trouble deciding if he wants to have sex with his girlfriend (Anita Pallenburg) or our Macho con man on the run played by Actor James Fox.

Mick was in full drag in many scenes and this was “shocking” and something that was getting lots of attention at the time. I have to mention that the late Marc Bolan was founded the trend setting rock band “T-Rex” was a lady if there ever was one. He let the world be privy to his fancies and was truly one of the pioneers in the glam days of rock and roll. A tragedy that Marc was killed in an auto accident at the age of twenty-three, just when he was about to become a superstar.

You’re gonna love this one and many of you will say, “Rudolph Who! Valentino” in the hit movie “The Sheik” (1921) shows us that the pretty movie idol stole a little of Theda Bara’s black mascara to mix up that macho image that he had. Men and women flocked to theaters in record numbers to see the film. I recall that when I was a teenager we called condoms “Sheiks”.

In her hit movie “Morocco” Marlene Dietrich performs a cabaret number in male drag. She kisses a woman on the lips, takes the woman's gardenia and flicks it to Gary Cooper. Even out of drag, Dietrich has distinct masculine/feminine appeal. I feel this is the bottom line in androgyny and the look.

I would say that Mary Martin's performance in Peter Pan was neuter gender and yes, androgynous. Not for the image that Sandy Duncan showed us when she took on the role. The hit movie from England, The Crying Game was basically a drag act on screen as Jaye Davidson is much too feminine to give us a magical mix of masculine and feminine to come under the definition of androgyny.

The cinema and public figures have dabbled in androgyny and bisexuality throughout history. In rock and roll, the Kinks said it best, "Girls will be boys and boys will be girls." In the movie industry and with our MTV generation things are not so easily defined.

It seems to me that it is a trait in us humans to put everything under a label and in a slot with titles. This gives us a real definable black and white to deal with. In our culture and society this area that is in between ying and yang is still being defined and yet we still find ourselves fascinated with what is basically a "look". Maybe someday it will be where precise sexual identity becomes irrelevant and what becomes much more important is our connection and relationships with other humans.

I was looking for the new "PR" for the movie Ed Wood featuring the multi-talented Johnny Depp. While this film was being made the advance notices were filling up the Hollywood gossip columns. Johnny was even plugging the movie in interviews that he was giving to nationally distributed publications. The movie was being directed by Tim Burton and was being financed by Disney Studios.

There has been no word on Ed Wood, and Johnny Depp's more recent films are now getting the attention. What happened to the movie as many were looking forward to seeing it? I did come across a review that I cut out and saved to write about. I am happy to tell you that the film The Adventures of Priscilla: Queen of the Desert was the rave at the recent and prestigious Cannes Film Festival.

What is so bemusing about this film is that the actor that was asked to portray the part of the adventurous Bernadette was macho-super villainous Terence Stamp, best known for his sinister roles in Superman, Superman II, Wall Street and Young Guns. Word is that Mr. Stamp gives us a graceful, elegant, and convincing performance as the acerbic transsexual Bernadette. The 54 year old actor had been feeling that he needed a change and wanted to find a part that would be fun.

The article tells us that Mr. Stamp has fond memories of the movies musical number, "Shake that Groove Thing", which was filmed in the Australian outback. "There I was," Stamp remembers ruefully, "In my high heels, tangerine fishnet stockings and satin leotard standing on a bar in a town called Broken Hill before a crowd of miners who were serving as extras." When the music went on, I went through a fear barrier so dense that when I came out the side I was in the stratosphere."

Ladies, can you imagine coming out en femme the first time in a bar full of miners? I am looking forward to viewing this movie as the advance PR has gotten my attention and interest. When I hear that a movie featuring a transsexual is getting rave reviews I listen up and I'm happy with what I'm hearing about the new hit movie, The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert. Priscilla is scheduled for release in the United States this month. I will do a complete review in a future issue.

I remember clearly the first time I attended a meeting of the well known crossdressing organization PPOC. I had been attending mostly functions and was just getting to be well known for my column in TV Epic. A few months after the first OTSN party I got an invite from Dr. Grace to attend one of the meetings in Artesia. I felt that at that point it was something I wanted to do. My feeling was that I was a party person and had found my niche.

Last month I sat down with Patty Barton who is President of PPOC and a good friend. I also want to mention that it is she who proof reads my column and work before I send it up to Pathway. I asked Patty to write the photo captions and copy for the photo spread I took at Cal Dreamin. Patty also will be sending in an occasional article which will most likely use a "Letter to the Community" by-line.

I realize that at that time, I could not relate to the ladies at the PPOC meeting back then because I had no sense or idea of what being a member of the transgendered community was all about. I was focused on finding my look and enjoying the lifestyle that finally brought me happiness. Yes, I was wrapped up in the Queen Mary scene and had never heard of Texas T or anything like it.

One evening Jim Bridges pulled me aside and told me that I needed to spread those wings "Baby"! His advice was that I attend the upcoming Texas T and get to know some of the gals who attend these events. His sales pitch was, "You will love it."

I had a wonderful time at the "T" as this was my first event and it was all so new to me. I felt like the eyes of the world were upon me as this was the weekend that the California Girls attended en masse. I still have a good story or two to tell about Texas T and have fond memories and some heart warming photos of friends at the event.

Moonlight in Manhattan was the party that put the community in my heart and soul with a passion that burns as the eternal flame that marks the late president Kennedy's grave. I came back from New York a changed person and I am happy that I made the trip. It finally hit me that I was the luckiest person in the world to have friends from all over the country and the world. All of us coming from different states and counties to meet and enjoy our common love and interest.

If you read about the community and can not relate to it, well that is ok. I feel that you have to give yourself permission to accept yourself for who and what you are. Then the next step is finding others like yourself to bond with and enjoy this common interest.

I attend an occasional PPOC meeting and I have even given a little speech on a few occasions. I feel very comfortable at these meetings and have a nice place to chat with friends. I am very happy that I am part of a community that is full of people who care about themselves and others. I want you to hit the Websters and look up community. I can tell you that I will fill you in on the specifics of the transgendered community and the bottom line is individuals who all give for the enrichment of the group.

PPOC meets the third Saturday of every month and I do feel that you might consider attending a meeting or calling their hotline if you have questions about transvestitism or related issues.

Ok ladies, dig out that magic marker and pull the calendar off the wall. Find October and circle October 22nd. This night will be my annual Birthday Party and, yes, this year I am going to be forty. Right! Moving on, we flip the slip and circle November 10th through 13th. You might also send a SASE to Lynda Frank, 330

W. 45th St. 3H, New York, NY 10036 or call her for information at 212-765-3561 on the spectacular "Big Apple Bonanza" which is the title for the 1994 Tri-Ess Holiday En Femme. This is the National Convention of Tri-Ess and will be a very special event. I will have complete details in my October or November column.

Let's see, we have a Halloween Party that is being presented at the Burbank Holiday Inn on October 29th which is a Friday night. Patty Barton pointed this out to me and mentioned that I should have plenty of time to plan for this event. Most likely I will do a photo special on this affair.

Oh, yes, one more thing I want to mention and this may very well put some spice into the mix before the year is over... I was thinking about putting together another Fetish Fashion Contest at the Queen Mary so I came up with the idea of a kinky costume contest that will be held on our Fantasy Fashion Fetish night in January. I got the thumbs up from Robert at the QM and just returned from Versatile Fashions and made arrangements with Mistress Antionette to have them present a "mini-fetish fashion show" during our contest. At this point Mistress Jennifer Antone and Jim Bridges are scheduled as judges for the contest. I will have more info in next month's column.

Love & peace

passion for fashion

One of the first things that attracted me to fashion was that the bottom line it is that is a glamorous business. I was always attracted to the models that adorned the cover of the numerous publications that focus on women and what they wear.

I recall that when a fashion show featuring a top designer came on the television I would become mesmerized as I watched the models show off these new creations.

I never really focused on why I was attracted so much to these images and shows until I decided it was time for me to come out. I realized real fast that putting together a wardrobe would be an endeavor. I had no idea where to start but had the common sense to look for one piece dresses that had long sleeves and high necklines. At that time I was terrified of going into local stores and boutiques so I looked for clothes where I could find them.

I was lucky to have a few crossdressing friends who helped me and also encouraged me. I realized fast that I was doing the famous "trial and error" trail, but I did not know about TV consultants and make over videos.

I found that if I went shopping it was helpful to take a friend to help me choose the right item. I recall that my first experience with a skirt and belt was fiasco. I was not used to having to adjust the belt, skirt and blouse due to slippage as I call it. I soon realized that if I was to really succeed in finding that feminine image I was looking for, that I would have to work for it.

At that time a dear friend back east got on my case about not going back to college. I took her advice, and when I looked through the list of classes my eyes focused on the fashion section. I enrolled for Introduction to Fashion and Fashion Merchandising. While taking these classes I was invited to help out with the fashion show.

The following semester I enrolled in Advertising and Modeling as I wanted to learn what it took to "do it right". I was in a class with 46 ladies and 5 men. I talked to the instructor after class and told her that I took the class so Marlayna would be a good model. I asked her to consider that and not focus on showing me how men model.

I realize that most of you can not do this, but the point I am making is that it is important that you educate yourself on what I call the "art of femininity". As a man this information is not readily available to you. You want to present a sexy positive feminine image and I am sure you do. Well, to do this, one has to know the proper way to sit at a bar or exit from a limo.

I have found that the fashion experience that is part of crossdressing is also a major part of the coming out process. I will tell you that when you are out in public you are judged by others within the first fifteen to twenty seconds.

When others see and meet you this impression comes mostly from your grooming and what you are wearing. There is great enjoyment in wearing a garment and finding that others compliment you on your choice and taste. They recognize that you have great pride in yourself and have worked to find the look that is right for you. Yes, fashion is fun and I feel that learning as much as you can about what makes you look good is most important.

TRANS TALK

with Kelley Wise

In many aspects of transforming physically into a woman, the face is the most important concern of many would be transsexuals. And rightfully so, because women are judged by their face first, then their bodies. Males haven't really begun to appreciate women for their minds. It may be sad, but it's true. You have to look good to be desirable as a woman.

For a transsexual this takes on added importance because passing is much easier if you have a pretty feminine face. Testosterone has a way of making this next to impossible, so you better keep it in check if you want to have an angelic demeanor, like a beautiful woman. I think M-F TS's that have the luxury of feminine beauty are much better accepted by society as women. It seems people don't think of someone that is desirable as a woman as really ever having been a man. So even if they find out, they still accept you because they can see you no other way. This is why the SRS candidate should plan to put a good portion of their expected transition costs toward electrolysis and refining your facial features.

The extent of what you may need to be concerned with depends on your age and how masculinized you are. In most cases electrolysis is the most important facial refinement you will need. Most mature males will require over 300 hours of electrolysis to permanently remove a beard. You may also need it around your eyebrows and nasal bridge. Most men have considerably bushier eyebrows than women and do require a few treatments there to create a more feminine look. Hopefully you don't have a problem with your back or chest.

Shop around when you look for an electrologist because you are going to be seeing them for a long time. Many shops offer discounts to transsexuals because they require so much work over a long period of time. You want a person that you will feel totally comfortable with; someone you will consider a friend. They are going to be very close to you when they work with you, so you want to be relaxed. I prefer the gentle touch of a petite genetic female. A soft touch is very important to minimize the discomfort. Consider for a moment that the electrologist is pushing a needle an eighth of an inch into your skin to fry the root of the shaft. All the needle jabbing can hurt when done in constant quick repetitions by a hand that is not gentle. I think excessive weight on the part of the electrologist can cause a potentially uncomfortable procedure.

For most people doing this on the face, some form of anesthetic is required. The currents used to kill the hair can be very painful. Many people take large doses of Tylenol half an hour before they have their session. Ibuprofen is also very good for this. When I went to my electrolysis sessions I stayed four hours at a time at least once a week to get the most work done as fast as possible. I found that prescription pain killers were the best way to endure hours of facial electrolysis. Tylenol 3, Darvocet, or Vikoden are good choices, but I prefer Percocet for those long sessions. Now there are highly effective topical anesthetics that work very well, ask your doctor for a prescription for this.

When you have facial electrolysis, try to avoid putting anything on your face for 24 hours is possible. Not washing your face that evening when you go to bed is probably a good idea. Your skin is susceptible to bacterial infection during this time, so don't touch your face and cause zits. It may take a couple days for the slight swelling and redness to go away, but don't worry, it does go away. In the end of your time spent eradicating your beard, you will have the satisfaction of never having to worry about 5 o'clock shadows, and you don't have to wear beard cover or heavy coverage foundation again. All contributing to a much better and believable feminine image for you.

In every thing you do, best wishes all the way.

GENDER expression

Many people, when they first come out, are looking for help or just someone to talk to who has the same interests. A lot of times they look through the ads or they go out to some of the clubs to try to make friends and maybe get some help. I get many letters from people who are new to the community that have no idea that there are many support groups scattered all over the country that can be very helpful to them whether it is to make new friends or to learn more about the gender life style and how they can learn to deal with it and themselves.

There are a number of different types of support groups who have various ways they reach out to people in the community. Most support groups are run by people in the community, but there are a few groups that are hosted and run by professionals. These groups normally fall into two categories: the open group, which is normally set up for someone in the community who would like to participate. They normally try to have educational programs at their meetings and also social events throughout the year. The closed group is normally designed to meet various needs in the community. One of these groups is Tri-Ess, which works specifically with heterosexual crossdressers and their spouses. Tri-Ess has chapters all over the country and is very helpful to people just coming out.

There are a number of TS groups, both pre and post op, and their needs are to accomplish the process of gender reassignment.

There are some people who are not into groups. They just want to be able to go out and enjoy life and meet new people and have a good time. This is where people like Marlayna Lacie and others around the country who set up and host parties and events at clubs and restaurants, really seem to get people out of their closets and out doing things.

You also have the wide variety of pageants that bring another segment of this community. These pageants attract a lot of people and they are going on all over the country. Some of the pageants get a lot of publicity and have major designers who sit as judges and a lot of the general public is interested because they all love to see all the gowns and costumes.

So, no matter where you are in the community or where you are in the world, you can find something going on in the transgendered community. I have been very fortunate to be able to travel around the world, thus I have been able to visit a number of groups and meet individuals and experience what the transgendered lifestyle is like in different parts of the world. My latest effort is a new outreach program in Southern California to help people in the gender community find information about publications, organizations and other kinds of help that is valuable to people in the transgendered community.

If you need information about support groups or other items I have talked to you about, you can contact me through my personal ad listing.

BRIDGES TO BEAUTY

WIGS PART I

Today I'm going to talk to you about wigs. One of the major mistakes I see everyday is too much hair. So many ladies in the community have thinning or receding hair as their male selves, so they go crazy over lots of hair when buying a wig.

I have ladies coming in every day with what appears to be a haystack sitting on top of their heads. This is truly a case of too much of a good thing. Clients have told me when purchasing a wig, they were told, "Oh, you never thin or cut a wig. It won't grow back!" Well that's pretty obvious even to a novice.

The truth of the matter is if someone tells you this, you know he or she doesn't know how to do it. In which case you are better off not to let them touch your new hair anyway. The best thing to do after you have made the purchase is to check around for someone with lots of wig experience. Maybe ask a girlfriend who did her wig.

The next step is to let the expert thin, trim and shape your wig to suit your face shape and size. Someone with a smaller frame and face will only get lost in too much hair. By the same token a larger person will only look even larger in too much hair.

It takes a lot of searching to find that happy medium. One of the best ways to shop for new hair is to ask a friend where they bought their wig. If your friend's hair looks good and is properly shaped, you are pretty safe making a purchase where she did.

For those of you living in small towns and having little choice, your best bet would be to try and come to a gender convention when one is in your area. There are ten to twelve of these conventions a year. They are held all around the country. Even if you have to drive a hundred miles or more, you will be richly rewarded for your efforts. I conduct wig seminars and cosmetic seminars at these conventions.

For those of you who can't come to the LA area, this is a wonderful opportunity not only to be pampered by the Jim Bridges staff, but to have a whole new image created for you by professionals.

Another problem we see far too often is the wig being worn down almost to the eyebrows. I know for a lot of new gals this is partly for security reasons. It's the old story of "If I wear my hair low enough no one will recognize me". This is partly true; however, you will also look like part of the missing link. The proper place for a wig to be is right at the hair line, or where the hair line use to be. The more forehead you are able to show, the more natural you look. When people comb all or most of the hair forward, it tends to start looking like a fur hat instead of your hair.

Please don't take these tips as personal insults if you are guilty of any of them. They are all meant to help you. That's why we are here.

In my next column we will discuss color selection. Till the next time, this is Jim Bridges in Hollywood.

Dealing with Coming Out

I have had more than a few men approach me or write to me and tell me they have finally made the decision to dress. Many are sincere and I realize it does take a lot of courage and soul searching to reach that point. I try to find out a little about the person and give what advice I can, adding that what I tell them has worked or not worked for me, and take what I say that applies and let the rest fly. One interesting aspect that comes up is the commitment to finding that positive and exciting feminine image that fits and compliments.

At this month's OTSN Party a fellow named Craig came over and introduced himself. He had read the magazine and had made plans a few months back to attend a party. Instinctively I asked him if he dressed, and he told me that he had some items at home, but was apprehensive about going all the way. I looked him over and told him that I felt that he would make an attractive lady with the right stuff. I then suggested that he consider booking an appointment with a well known beauty specialist. I gave him a card from Val Driscoll's Hair to Wear Wigs because he lives in the South Bay. I then introduced him to Jim Bridges who was stopping by the club for a cocktail and to pose for a photo for this publication. Jim agreed with me that Craig would transform into a very sexy lady.

I explained to Craig that one can save lots of time and pass over many trial by error experiences if you seek out a good consultant who specializes in transforming men into sexy women. In every major city in this country one can find beauty specialists that will assist you in finding your own special feminine image. You will also find that these people usually know about most, if not all, of the local clubs, parties, and events that one can attend.

If you do not know where to look, I suggest you contact a crossdressing group that is in your area or try to find publications that focus on alternative lifestyles in your city. One can also attend a national event such as California Dreamin or Moonlight in Manhattan and find just about every major vendor or beauty specialist available. One can walk off the street and within eight hours find all one needs to be the lady you wanted to be in your dreams.

If you do not have access to people such as Val and Jim, I suggest you look into the instructional make-over videos that are on the market. Yes, Jim Bridges has a set available and there are many others available.

When you are coming out, I feel it is important that this process be enjoyable and not one that puts you into situations that make you disappointed and frustrated. One sure way to avoid this is to seek out professional consultants who specialize in your interest. This will be a blessing in the end and the money invested will be well spent.

I have been dressing for years and I still seek out help when I need it. I feel this has helped me immensely as I live my life in the transgendered community.

I then ask them (the men) if their financial situation allows them the freedom to shop and spend money to find that image.

I tell them that should they decide to learn to scuba dive, play golf, or even take up jogging, it takes an investment in that activity. I fill them in on the basic cost of wig, foundation garments, shoes, hose, dresses, and usually they are trying to put it all together as I tell them this.

I then add that seeing professional consultants for wigs and what style is right for you. Also finding a beautician or TV consultant might be considered. I tell them that jewelry and other accessories are to be considered and then to top it off one has to have those famous dead presidents to go out to clubs and social events such as Dressed to Thrill and Fantasy Fashion Fetish night.

Many times these men have not changed their minds but they hear from someone with experience that it is more than meets the eye. I do tell these men that they are fortunate that at this time there are a number of vendors and boutiques where one can find help and shop without feeling self conscious.

I write this series because I feel that the many issues one has to deal with in this lifestyle can be overwhelming and that can take some of the fun out that should be there.

It should be a rewarding and enjoyable part of your life and looking at it realistically in the financial aspects is one thing that I feel is most important when one is dealing with coming out.

Suite Saturday Dance Party

Joni Deere and Miss Nicki never miss the party

Yes, we have free copies of the new Epic at the party!

Hometown girl Carol likes the five-minute drive.

We could have very well used the song "Hot Hot Hot" by the English rock band The Cure as the theme for the evening. The notorious Santa Ana winds sweeping in from the desert had the air conditioners running at full tilt. This did not stop many of the local ladies from attending the monthly event. Tasha La Blush and I were pleased to welcome so many new friends. Yes, the Manhattan event is not scheduled, but one can still call the restaurant and make reservations. This month's event, presented by Club Cherchez La Femme, will be on the 17th. So do plan on attending and "put those red shoes and dance the blues" as David Bowie told us. See you there!

Miss Sloane makes the Scene.

First time at the Suite for these ladies.

Party notes

MARLAYNA & MELISA present "ON THE SCENE NITE"

The lovely Melisa Moore

This year the July celebration was a night to be "On the Scene". The sparklers were lit in everybody's eyes as they entered the Queen Mary nightclub. The red, white, and blue twinkle lights illuminated the place and the spirit of the Fourth was enjoyed.

Christine Hochberg helped Marlayna with the buffet and we would like to thank her for the help and encouragement. New faces arrived for this event. We welcomed Pam to her first "OTSN" and invited her to the many events held at the nightclub.

Liberated Ladies

On the third Saturday night you can celebrate your birthday with your friends at the Queen Mary. Birthday guests will receive a free admission, a photograph with performers and friends, a lighted birthday surprise and an entry into a drawing for a bottle of Moet Chandon champagne. You must first register with myself or the staff and have a happy birthday.

When you think of liberty you think of freedom from bonds. The liberated Ladies of this party were not held by anything but their admirers. Don't forget Club 7969 in Hollywood has dancing on Friday nights and a female impersonation show as well as on Monday nights. The fun begins late with dancing until about twelve-thirty, then the show starts. If you remember my review of the shows you won't want to miss it. Club 7969 is located at 7969 Santa Monica Blvd in Hollywood, CA. If you would like more information about the Birthday Parties or any of these events feel free to call the Queen Mary nightclub on Friday nights or Saturday nights and I will be happy to talk to you. The Queen Mary is located at 12449 Ventura Blvd in Studio City and can be reached by calling (818)506-5619. I look forward to seeing you.

Cheryl back "on the scene."

Watch out! Miss Caroline is back in town.

Smile, doll!

Work it, Joni!

Miss Rhonda will be a cover girl soon.

We like to party with semi-generous individuals who appreciate the perverted and kinky lifestyle that we truly love. We are very discreet and expect the same. We are not looking for money but an appreciation of how to party properly. We are into submissive or dominant people who know what they like. We like movies, mutual masturbation, G/S, and verbal abuse. TV's, TS's and all females are encouraged to contact us as well as all submissive males. Write to: [REDACTED]
